David is our Relationship Manager. He brings with him broad experience gained from an extensive background in customer service across banking and telecommunications. David is the initial point of contact for new clients to the firm, and his focus is to ensure that clients have a great experience with us. David takes the time to discuss queries, empower clients with greater understanding of what to expect, and informs them on what to bring to their first appointment. He has great intuition in matching clients with the lawyer that has the right expertise and 'fit' for their particular situation.

Our feedback results clearly show that clients are very happy with the service they receive at Estate First.

In addition to helping our new clients, David is a key stakeholder in managing relationships with our various business partners, ensuring that they can trust that their clients will be cared for and are in good hands.
